LEGISLATURE AND LEGISLATORS

REVIEW OF WORK IN LEGISLATURE

Important Bills Are Introduced in Both Houses, but Only Few Are Passed.

PROHIBITION CHIEF THEME

LIQUOR QUESTION APPARENTLY HOLDS FIRST PLACE.

One of the most important bits of prospective legislation that will come before the present legislative assembly is the resolution favoring an amendment to the state constitution, which was introduced in the senate by Senator Rudolph Kuchler of Weber. The Kuchler amendment proposes to extend state aid to high schools by providing that a half-mill tax on the total taxable property of the state go to the high schools. This amendment, if carwill provide great assistance for the high schools of the state, especially in the rural districts where the school funds of the district are insufficient to Considerable interest has been leaders of the prohibition movement. Delegations from different sections of the state have called on the members of both houses representing these sec tions, and have urged them to vote for prohibition. The surprise of the week was the stand taken by Senator John Y. Smith, who told a delegation of thirty leading citizens of Utah county, who called on him to urge him to vote for the prohibition bill that there were two sides to the question, and by his attitude convinced many that, contrary to all expectations, he was really opposed to prohibition, though favoring saloon regulation.

Seventy-three bills have been introduced in the house up to this time. During the week a number of bills have been proposed relating to so-called reformation in the conduct of individuals. One of these is to the effect that cigarettes and c'garette papers be put out of commission within a reasonable period, in order that the dealer may dispose of his stock, presumably. It is no stated why, if smoking cigarettes after a date a year hence is unlawful, it is not unlawful new.

funds of the district are insufficient to bring the high schools up to the standard made necessary by the entrance requirements of the state university. The proposed amendment also provides that the present rate of taxation remain in force until the assessed valuation of the state shall reach $460,000,000. If the resolution passes the legislature the amendment will be voted on at the election of 1910.

Visitors in the house of representatives of the eighth legislative session have noted the remarkable resemblance between F. B. Hammond of Grand county and William L. Hayes of Utah county. Hammond, being the elder man, of course, carries a little weight for age, but not a few have remarked that the two men so closely resemble each other that they might easily be taken for father and son. Hammond is one of the two Democrats

In the legislature. He is as good a Democrate as ever expounded the Jeffersonian doctrine, and he keeps expounding it all the while. That is one of the reasons why the people of Moab and the other places in Grand sent him to the legislature. Hayes is a good Republican, if there can be such a thing. He believes in his party's principles as earnestly as does Hammond believe in the principles of his party. Perhaps of the eighth legislative session have noted the remarkable resemblance between F.
